Dear Sir:

I believe Calif. water problem could be solved by having So. Calif. desalt the pacific ocean water. It would be a lot cheaper than building Canal & levees to pipe the water down there.

Build the Canal from the Delta toward So. Calif. will just ease the water pressure from the Delta and could eventually allow salt water to flow down So. from the delta. water down So. just might ease pressure so the Pacific ocean salt water could flow South.

Build some dams down South rather than enlarge Shasta Dam

That's about all I have to comment on concerning water.
