Comments:

No peripheral canal! It would be a mind boggling public works program that has the capability of altering every stream/river that flows into the delta. And it would be an eyesore, some <sup>two</sup> hundred or more wide, destroying farmland to carry water.

Your efforts need to proceed more on ways to protect the S.F. bay and delta — also, various conservation efforts would save prodigious amounts of water. Farmers should be required to abandon flood irrigation. Incentives need to be established so farmers can invest in various hi-efficiency devices, such as, drip irrigation.

— lastly, home owners ~~should~~ at the terminals of this vast water project, need to be convinced to forego their lawns and convert to drought resistant plants.
