LOCAL RESIDENTS ADDRESS STATE, FEDERAL OFFICIALS ON WATER ISSUES

WHAT Tonight, Vacaville area residents will tell state and federal officials how they think the California Bay-Delta system should be managed, as part of a 75-day public comment period that will impact the hub of California's water system and one of the largest estuaries in the world.

California's Bay-Delta system supplies drinking water for more than 22 million Californians and irrigation water for the state's $24 billion agricultural industry. It supports more than 750 plant and animal species, some found nowhere else on earth. Years of conflict among urban, agricultural, environmental and other users have pushed the system to the brink of failure. VACAVILLE COMMUNITIES HAVE A PARTICULAR STAKE IN FINDING A BAY-DELTA SOLUTION, INCLUDING:

- What kinds of assurances will there be to address the ability to continue to meet the water needs of local residents?
- How much will the solution cost, and who will pay?
- What will be the impact on local water quality?
