WATER IS WEALTH

Water is the number one priority in California! As more people decide to settle here, it will become even more critical. On a good snow year, (1998) Lake Tahoe's, Mono Lake's and Shasta's extra water should be carefully stored. In the case of Shasta Lake, the lake level should not be raised to destroy more Indian artifacts, campsites, and fishing. It should be stored in the Sites area. We will surely have more drought years and every drop should be carefully preserved.

Agriculture needs water to survive in both the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys. Fish (salmon, steelhead) and birds (wading, migratory ducks, swans, geese) cannot fight for themselves. Just remember water is wealth not only in California - in the United States and all over the world.
